----------------------------------- In the beginning, on the land of Dunklal, there was solitude. It was a land rich in mystery and legend. In that land, an abandoned tower stood alone, surrounded by a dense forest. On the tower was a huge black stone slab. It was said that one day, from that stone slab, the power of the Elden Ring Free Download would emerge... And the world would be made anew. The building was visited by several people, who found that it housed a deep, even aura, and were afraid to approach it. People whispered that a hideous creature lay in wait inside. Those who entered, however, invariably disappeared. No one ever returned. This state of affairs lingered for many years. At that time, the place had become a notorious tomb. The land around it felt ominous and foreboding, and no one dared to set foot in its vicinity. One day, a man by the name of Uroh, a gnome who had a small business, set out for the Tower to sell his wares. When he reached the Tower, he managed to sell his goods and returned home. He was at home when, finally, he heard the sound of snoring from the tower. Glancing up at the sky, he realized that there was a large moon somewhere over the tree-covered mountains in the distance. Seeing as how the night would probably get pretty chilly, he carefully climbed up the Tower to the roof and discovered that the moon was lying directly below him. When he looked down at the ground, he noticed an old set of footprints in the snow. There was one set of footprints which he did not recognize. But this was surely strange. After all, the land where this was located was said to be a haunted area, and there was nowhere a human being could be. Curiosity overcame him, and he decided to follow the tracks. He followed them until he reached a cave. Unable to climb up, he shouted out to whoever was in there, but there was no reply. There wasn't even the sound of breathing. Uroh was suspicious. Why would someone be in such a tight spot in the snow, when they were in the middle of an abandoned building? That was the type of behavior for a monster to have. Uroh thought that he should get some wood to burn, so he went back home and collected a bunch of firewood. Gathering the firewood, he headed back to the cave. When
