Die 28 Dae Eetplan Pdf.CCR5 deficiency impairs central and peripheral dendritic cell trafficking and T cell-dependent anti-viral immunity. CCR5 is a key receptor for HIV-1 entry and inflammation. The specific role of CCR5 in dendritic cell (DC) function has remained enigmatic. We show here that CCR5, like CD86, is the major co-stimulatory receptor for all human DC subsets, including plasmacytoid DCs. Surprisingly, the absence of CCR5 results in a profound defect in both central and peripheral DC trafficking and impairs anti-viral CD4(+) T cell responses. While most CCR5-deficient DCs were normally able to enter lymph nodes, they were unable to migrate to the periphery. The myeloid C
